'TIMES' THINKS GEN. WU ERRED IN NOT TAKING PEKING HELM

Should Have Stayed To Inspire Others, Says Paper

LOANS ARE BANE

No Disbandment Without Unification, Is View

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—The Times, in a leading article on "Distracted China," emphasises the seriousness of the task of the new regime and expresses the opinion that General Chang Tso-lin need not be regarded with anxiety. More disquieting than the recalcitrance of General Chang Tso-lin is the report that the Acting President is not receiving the promised support from the Tribune who urged him to return to office and that factional strife is increasing in Parliamentary circles.

It is unfortunate that General Wu Pei-fu did not remain in the Capital and seek to inspire others with his own purposeful spirit. The interrelated problems, unification, disbandment and finance, are still to be solved. There can be no prospect of disbandment until unification is accomplished and a united Government firmly in the saddle. Peking is financially in extremis and some form of relief is essential if hopeless impasses is to be avoided. All who know China are convinced that foreign loans are the bane of the Chinese.

The Times is far from advocating that the interested Powers should now put their hands in their pockets. It is imperative that they should watch the situation carefully and sympathetically with a view to intervening at the right moment. It is within their power to release the salt and Customs surpluses in advance and some such step, judiciously taken, might advantageously relieve the nearly desperate situation.

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 12.—Chinese and Japanese are used on an equal plane as the languages of the Sino-Japanese Shantung Conference. As all speeches and remarks have to be translated, the work of the Commission is necessarily slow. This, with the fact that there is such a mass of technical detail to be gone through, will mean that no big decisions can be reached for some time to come.

Magistrate Dismisses Criminal Negligence Charge Against Ezra

Defendant In Motor Car Action In British Police Court Acquitted After Protracted Hearing

Charges against Mr. Judah I. Ezra of negligent driving of a motor car were dismissed by Magistrate G. W. King in the British Police Court yesterday at the conclusion of a summary hearing which had extended over a period of some days. The charges were the outgrowth of a motor car accident on June 20 on Bubbling Well Road, in which a motor car, driven by Mr. Ezra, struck a ricsha in which Miss K. V. Shekury was riding, thereby causing injury to the occupant of the ricsha. Superintendent of Police Vaughan prosecuted the case for the police, and Mr. M. B. Brown was counsel for Mr. Ezra. Major C. P. Holcomb watched the case on behalf of Miss Shekury.

In rendering his verdict, Magistrate King said that this was a case in which the defendant was charged with wiful neglect and with causing bodily harm to Miss Shekury. He had, after some reluctance, decided to try it summarily. At the beginning, he had felt that the whole question was one fitted for a jury and judge to try. It put rather a burden on him to find guilt or non-guilt of a man charged with nestigence.

A CRIMINAL ACTION

The first point that he wanted to make quite clear was that this was a criminal case and his judgment should not preclude Miss Shekury from taking any civil action she desired. Miss Shekury was the innocent third party. She was hurt and suffered bodily harm. He emphasised this point, in case it led to the belief that no civil action lay after the judgment. The collision had taken on the wrong side of the road, and therefore prima facie it shifted the onus on the shoulders of the defendant.

Mr. King reviewed the case briefly. The question of speed, he said, was not quite against the defendant. All that they had was the evidence of the Chinese witnesses for the prosecution and these were agreed that he was going at more than ordinary speed. As regards the speed the Magistrate said he was rather in favor of the defendant.

NO. SEVEN

The real question he had to decide was on the facts whether the defendant had put himself in the grasp of the English Criminal Law. The point to bear in mind was that there must be wanton, furious wiful misconduct and wilful neglect. There must be one of these before a man could be convicted of criminal negligence. There must be a criminal state of mind. He must be a man who was coming along with no regard for others. It was not every tithe of negligence that would make a man guilty of criminal negligence.

DISMISSES CHARGE

Putting it at the worst against the defendant, he would accept everything against him that he did that night. Whatever he did that night did not bring him within the purview of the criminal law, and he accordingly dismissed the charge against the defendant.

The concluding testimony for the defense was given by Mrs. Regina Alexandra Nizimkovitch, who was riding with Mr. Ezra in the car at the time of the accident, and by a chauffeur employed by Dr. Haimovitch, the owner of the car. Mrs. Nizimkovitch corroborated Mr. Ezra's version of the accident and expressed the belief that it could not have been avoided. The chauffeur told of a visit which the riesha coolie had made to the home of Mr. Ezra following the accident when he had admitted his carelessness.

Colorful Illumination Of French Park Closes Observance Of Holiday

Fairyland Of Softly Glowing Light Is Presented As Final Scene Of Celebration Following Day's Program Of Events

French residents of Shanghai and also all the mingled peoples of the community closed the observance of the anniversary of the Fall of the Bastille last night under the glow of myriad colored lights that transformed the French Park into a shadowy fairyland. This illumination was the final public event of the program given through the day and while it was in progress the annual ball opened in the spacious building of the French Club.

However familiar the older residents of Shanghai become with this closing event of the celebration of the French National Holiday the illumination of the park proves ever a new enchantment and a scene of beauty. From the blazing glare of the uncounted electric lights of decorations along the way to the park the spectator enters softly lighted avenues bathed in a restful diffused glow from thousands upon thousand lanterns of crimson and orange hanging in the trees in great clusters and strung in every direction through the shadows overhead.

Enhancing the charm of the whole scene as the spectator proceeds into the park toward the bandstand where the concert by the band has started he comes upon a weirdly exquisite effect produced from masses of azure lights that glow over the ponds casting into their still surfaces phosphorescent reflections. This picture is one of the things that has made Shanghai's observance of the Fall of the Bastille an event known through the world.

DAY'S PROGRAM

Yesterday's program of events opened with the raising of the Tri-color at the French Consulate-General at 8 o'clock in the morning. This ceremony was attended by many French residents as well as by detatchments of French soldiers, sailors and police.

Following the flag-raising, at 11 o'clock, M. Wilden, the French Consul-General, held a reception for the entire French community, members of the Consular body, Chinese officials and others, at the Consulate. The usual toasts of the day were given.

During the noon hour large and well attended receptions were held at the Cercle Francais and the Cercle Sportif Francais.

Scores of people attended the receptions and the festivities were unusually brilliant when the French members of the Club were 'at home' to their fellow members of other nationalities at 12:30 o'clock.

FRENCH CLUB CROWDED

President M. H. Madier of the French Club presided and called upon the French Commercial Attache, Mr. J. Knight, to propose the toast to the Republic. The singing of the Marseillaise followed and H. H. Fox, British Commercial Counsellor was called upon.

He brought the congratulations of the British Community to their Allies, and expressed his congratulations. The band played "God Save the King."

Refreshments were served in the ball room, which was crowded with representatives of all nationalities who joined in the singing of the Marseillaise, Madelon and other French songs.

The annual program of sports and field games was held in the French Park beginning at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon for children. M. Wilden and Madame Wilden were both in attendance and Madame Wilden directed a general distribution of gifts and prizes to the children at 4:30 o'clock.

INQUEST MARKS LAST CHAPTER IN DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Officials Conclude Inquiry Into Sadovnikoff Slaying And Suicide

The last chapter in the double tragedy which took place last Saturday morning when Michael G. Sadovnikoff walked into the Elegante Millinery Shop in the Astor House Block, shot and killed Mrs. Anna Averkieva, and then put a deadly bullet through his own brain, was written yesterday when Russian Assessor Ivanov and Magistrate Tsang concluded their frquest into the two deaths at the Mixed Court.

In their verdict, they held that Mrs. Averkieva had come to her death through revolver wounds inflicted by Sadovnikoff, and that the latter's fatal wounds were self-inflicted.

The chief feature of yesterday's resumed hearing was the introduction by Detective Inspector Reeves of a letter addressed by Sadovnikoff to the Chinese authorities. In it, he detailed his military career in Siberia and told how he had risen from a private to a colonelcy. The letter was headed "A Confession."

"I lived straight in Shanghai," it read, "but when I met this girl, I lost everything. I resolved, 'you brought me to this; I shall know no mercy.' I beg, do not judge me too hardly. In my position, I am sure other people would have done the same."

The letter was signed "M. G. Sneelseen," which was Sadovnikoff's real name.

The first witness yesterday was Miss Dezak, who repeated her eye-witness account of the shooting. Miss Kolefko, another shop assistant, also gave evidence. Sub-Inspector Jones said that when he arrived at the scene of the murder and suicide, Sadovnikoff was rolling on the floor beside the body of the woman, who was already dead. He picked up a revolver.

Detective-Inspector Reeves testified to taking Sadovnikoff to the General Hospital. On his person he found a pocket book, some cards, money, paper, and the letter.

LLOYD GEORGE FAVORS RESPITE ON REPARATIONS

"Obvious Allies Must Consider Berlin's Plea," He Says

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—Speaking in the House of Commons today in reply to questions, Mr. Lloyd George said that it was obvious that the Allies must seriously consider the German Government's request for a further moratorium in regard to cash payment of reparations and consult each other and the Reparations Commission on the subject.

He was not in a position at present to state the attitude of the British Government except to say that they considered it absolutely necessary that such respite should be given to Germany as to enable her to restore order in her finances so as to be in a position to make reasonable payments on account of her obligations as early as possible.

Replying to a deputation of the National Union of Manufacturers, urging the enforcement of the German reparations agreement, Mr. Lloyd George declined to discuss the question of reparations until the report of the Reparations Commission in Paris had been received, which he hoped would be in a few days.

He entirely agreed on the desirability of enforcing reparations if it could be done "without harming ourselves more than Germany."

The situation with regard to Germany's external trade was not so rosoate as the members of the deputation appeared to think. Dr. Rathenau had estimated that the export trade of Germany was 25 percent of the pre-war trade.

The French estimate was forty percent but how, Mr. Lloyd George asked, could Germany export much capital on that basis?

Paris, July 13.—The German Reichstag has read for the second time the Bill for the Defence of the Republic.

The Finance Commission of the Reichstag has decided upon the figure for the forced loan, which will be 70,000,000 paper marks.

Paris, July 13.—The Reparation Commission has replied to Germany, denying that the reparations payments are the most important cause of the fluctuation of the mark, declaring that a stable position can only be reestablished by immediate enforcement of the financial reforms, previously demanded by the Commission promising a definite decision before August 15 and in the meantime demanding the payment of the instalment due on July 15.

3 ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY IN INSURANCE TRANSACTIONS

Wallace, Spence And Chalmers In Jail

WILD CAT CHARGE

Sold Policies In Non Existent Companies, Police Say

W. G. Wallace, Arthur M. Spence and George Chalmers who lately have been engaged in several enterprises with offices at No. 8 Kiangse Road all are being held in connection with what the police call one of the most audacious insurance frauds ever brought to light here. The three are to answer charges of conspiracy to defraud as it is alleged that acting as representatives of non-existent insurance concerns and possessing no other resources than a quantity of insurance policy forms and literature they have issued upwards of three hundred fire insurance policies, principally to Chinese merchants outside of Shanghai.

Wallace has asserted that he is an American citizen, but as he has been denied recognition by the American Consulate his case is being taken up in the Mixed Court. Spence and Chalmers are British subjects and their cases will be dealt with in the British Police Court. A fourth against whom no charge has yet been drawn, but who is said to be involved with the first three in the conspiracy charge is an American citizen.

THE TWO COMPANIES

The titles of the insurance companies which the police assert are bogus concerns are the German American Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Baltimore, Maryland and the World Insurance Underwriters of Jersey City, New Jersey. Wallace, who has been styled the manager of the World Insurance Underwriters, originally was arrested several days ago on a charge of obtaining goods to the value of $588 by fraud in Tientsin. This charge was made on complaint of Joseph Leibovitch and following a hearing in the Mixed Court bond in the case was fixed in the sum of $5,000 which Wallace was unable to give.

HIS CHILD DIES

An incident that has won some measure of sympathy for Wallace since he has been in jail was the death and the funeral yesterday of his two-year-old son, George Anthony Wallace. When the child became desperately ill with convulsions Thursday afternoon Wallace was permitted to go to his home on Route Dollfus in company with a detective and was present when the child died. In the same manner he was permitted yesterday to attend the funeral.

Wallace is well known to the police. Until about three years ago he was employed in the Customs and it was shortly after his marriage to a young woman entertainer of one of the cafes that flourished in the district called The Trenches that he was arrested on a charge of smuggling opium. As he claimed American citizenship he was tried in the United States Court for China and upon conviction he served a term of imprisonment at Bilibid. After completing this sentence he appeared in Shanghai for a time and then went to Siberia, returning some months ago.

SENT TO MIXED COURT

When the charge of obtaining goods by fraud was brought against him recognition as an American citizen was denied, and it was said it had been disclosed that he was born in Russia and held no title to American citizenship. The case then was sent into the Mixed Court.

The only one of the trio who has been given any preliminary hearing in connection with the conspiracy charge is Spence who was arrested early yesterday. Chalmers was taken into custody late yesterday afternoon and is to appear this morning in the British Police Court.

HEARING CONTINUED

Spence was charged in the British Police Court before Magistrate G. W. King in the morning and after the hearing, which was remanded for a week, was ordered released on two sureties of $500. Detective Sergeant R. W. Yorke, who with Detective Ser-

Agent J. Douglas and Detective Inspector P. W. Reeves, gathered the evidence against the two alleged bogus companies and arrested the men. Testified that Spence had been arrested on a warrant obtained by the police, and that police had then raided the premises of the two companies at 8 Kiangse Road and removed all papers, accounts or other data that had any connection with the companies affairs.

Detective Yorke also said that Spence had made a statement when taken to the Central station. When the charge was read against him, he said, Spence remarked: "I understand. I am going to be made the goat."

Mr. R. C. Faithful, the Police Prosecutor, appeared for the police in the case, and asked for a week's adjournment explaining that while the police had reason to believe the companies were non-extent they had cabled to both Baltimore and Jersey City in an effort to discover whether any such companies were chartered there.

Spence asked Magistrate King to read the statement he had made to the police when he was arrested.

NAMES WALLACE

Magistrate King replied by giving a summary of the statement. "The first part of the statement tells of how you came to China," he said. "The second part explains how you happened to become connected with Wallace, and the third part deals with certain investigation made into these insurance companies. The fourth explains your connection with the companies.

"The material part is between June 3 and June 13. The present investigations were made on June 12, and you did business on June 16 knowing that the business of the company was being investigated. In the last part of your statement you state that you have made no money out of it."

Magistrate King then explained to Mr. Faithful the law of conspiracy in the British Courts. The prosecution, he said, would have to show not only conspiracy but also that the defendant had conspired with others. The police allegation was that these two companies were bogus and that the defendant knew it, and knowing it held out to the public that the companies were good and thereby defrauded them.

The police would have to prove that these companies were bogus, the Magistrate said, and having proved that would have to prove that certain people had been defrauded.

Dr. Sun Has Hopes Of Come-Back, Belief

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 12.—Today's reports confirm the fact that Dr. Sun Yat-sen is on board one of the Chinese gunboats anchored off Shamoen. Dr. Sun certainly must have some material hope behind him, other than the comparatively helpless backing of the people of Canton.

It would seem that this encouragement comes from the fact that General Hsu is getting his army closer to Canton each day. General Hsu himself is reported as having been at Namyung, in northern Kwantung, on the second. His advance guard gave battle to General Chen Chiung-ming's troops just north of Shiuchow on the eighth instant and according to the meager information available, were successful. That means they are now in possession of the railway and could get to Canton in two days. Of course, if the line were cut and they met opposition, their arrival at Dr. Sun's side would be delayed. General Chen is at Sheklung where he moved to better combat General Hsu's advance.

The number of troops which General Hsu has with him is not known definitely. However, he had in Kiangsi as part of the Northern Expedition under his command some ten thousand men. His march down to the railway from Kiangsi has not been an easy one and it has taken nearly ten days thus far.

President Host To Shantung Envoys

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 12.—This morning nine o'clock President Li Yuan-hung gave an audience to the Japanese members of the Sino-Japanese Commission for Shantung Affairs. In welcoming them, the President expressed the wishes of China that the work of the Commission may end successfully. If the Shantung problem is once removed, relations between China and Japan will have begun a new era. Shantung has been a grave cause of misunderstanding between the two countries, and its removal will clear away a sore spot, not only in the Orient but for the world generally.

Mr. Obata replied on behalf of the guests likewise predicting a satisfactory settlement of the questions involved, leading to the future of peace between the two nations of the East.

Cabinet Out, But Most Of Members Are To Keep Jobs

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 14.—Not as the result of internal dissension but as a matter of form, the Cabinet yesterday submitted their resignations to the President en bloc. This action was taken in view of the forthcoming opening of Parliament when the President may desire to reconstruct the Cabinet with the approval of Parliament.

The present Cabinet was only appointed as a temporary instrument and while there is much to indicate that the Parliament is most loyal to President Li Yuan-hung and will show due regard to his wishes, undoubtedly some opposition exists towards certain Ministers. The close relations of the President with the Premier will probably result in the reappointment of Dr. W. W. Yen and the majority of the present Ministers but in view of the fact that the first question Parliament will take up will be a permanent Cabinet, the President will shortly summon the members of Parliament for a discussion so that there will be no time lost after the opening. Meanwhile, the Cabinet resignations have not been accepted.

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 12.—The Commander of the defense force of Kiangsi and the acting Civil Governor have telegraphed the Peking Government requesting that the appointment of Tsao Ping-chang to be director of Finances of Kiangsi be confirmed by Presidential Mandate. Tsao is the tanyin of the Ting Chang district of Fukien and is at present acting as director of finances. Therefore, they request the mandate making his office permanent.

He wishes to devote his entire time to military matters looking forward to disbandment. His headquarters will be established at Paoting or Machang, which ever place suits the Government better. His first work will be the Twenty-third Division.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talc powder. (Advt.)

RADIO RETURNS $600,000 PROFIT FOR UNCLE SAM

Wireless Stations Yield Unexpectedly Fine Revenue

(United Press Service)

Washington, June 19.—Without half trying, Uncle Sam is making money out of his naval radio equipment. The commercial business carried not only reduced the cost to the government of its own business, but brought into the United States Treasury last year more than $600,000 in cash.

Back in 1917, the commercial messages brought $32,239 to the treasury; in 1918 this jumped to $291,903 and it continued going up, so that last year there was deposited in the treasury from this source a total of 3666,362. The present fiscal year is keeping up the record.

These figures were disclosed by an extensive report on the naval radio service and what it is doing, filed with the Senate appropriations committee in its hearings on the naval appropriation bill. Admiral Robison, chief of the bureau of engineering, submitted the data.

Radio research and experimental work by the navy has resulted, Robison's statement showed, in a large number of valuable improvements. He listed a few of them, including

Great improvement in facilities for secret communication; doubling the capacity of the crowded ether to carry radio messages; increasing the range of aircraft radio sets from 50 to 500 miles; reduction of the weight of aircraft radio equipment, thereby saving fuel; development of a pilot cable for harbors and landing fields. Making navigation and landing safe in foggy and rainy weather; improvement of simultaneous communication, so that it is now possible to send five messages at once, instead of only one.

Speed of long distance sending has been increased six fold, so that 60 words a minute instead of 10 can now be sent; automatic transmission and reception have been made possible; a kite has been perfected for lifting an emergency antenna from an airship forced to land on the water, thus making possible a speedier rescue; advances have been made in controlling ships and torpedoes by radio.

Admiral Robison also listed a great number of technical advances having to do mostly with the effectiveness of the naval radio in war time against enemies by land or sea. He declared the 214 naval radio stations now in service adequately serve not only the Asiatic, Pacific and Atlantic fleets, but the American merchant marine as well.

A listening device for detecting enemy submarines and other craft has been brought to perfection, he said and will shortly be installed on destroyers and a few battleships. The details of this invention, Admiral Robison pointed out, are confidential.

BRITISH PLANS RADIO PLANT OF GREAT POWER

Postal Chief Tells Of Communications Scheme

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—In the House of Commons today Mr. F. C. Kellaway, the Postmaster General, stated that the Government had further considered the question of the Imperial wireless chain and had decided to erect in England a station of the ultimate power contemplated by the commission of experts instead of one of smaller power as at first proposed.

The Government was advised that this station would provide direct communication with India, South Africa and Australia.

The Imperial Government would erect in India and the Indian Government would work a station also capable of direct communication with England, South Africa and Australia. It was proposed that the erection of a second station in Egypt and a station in East Africa should be deferred.

The question of erecting stations at Singapore and Hongkong would be reconsidered. The Government was communicating with the Union Government with regard to a station in South Africa.

Canadian Government experts were expected in England shortly to discuss participation of Canada in the scheme.

Hupeh Governor Is In Hot Water

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 12.—General Tang Hsiang-ming is reported to be having a hard struggle because of his appointment to the Civil Governorship of Hupeh. In the first place the opposition of the Military Governor of Hupeh worked against the appointment in the Cabinet meeting and he was given the post in spite of the trouble it raised.

Now General Tang, on his way south, paid a call on General Wu Pei-fu and was refused an audience. If the opposition gets hotter the nearer the General gets to his Province, it should be pretty bad when he arrives.

Republic At Cork Rumor Baseless

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 14.—A message received here at midnight shows that the rumor of the proclamation of a republic in Cork is unfounded. The city is quiet but telegraphic communication with it is still subject to delay.

London, July 13.—In the House of Lords today Lord Birkenhead said that he believed that we were the last witnessing the birth of the Irish nation. He boldly claimed that the situation today contained elements of promise which had not existed betwen Ireland and England for centuries. Murders, outrages and hardships were decreasing.

The Irish signatories to the Treaty had given the clearest possible proof of their preparedness to run every risk to carry it out. If they succeeded, the Irish Question was solved, but it they failed and savagery and anarchy resulted, Britain would not stand aside.

At present, however, Lord Birkenhead refused to believe that they were going to fail.

London, July 13.—Mr. Michael Collins has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Irish Army and Mr. Richard Mulcahy Chief of Staff with General Owen O'Duffy as Commandant of the South Western Division.

They will constitute the Supreme Irish War Council in charge of military operations throughout the country.

Agent Sent To Inquire Into Mutiny In Anhui

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 11.—General Tsao Kun recently sent Major Chien Tze-nung to Anhui to inquire into and report upon the mutiny at Szechow, by the new Anwuchun under the command of General Yin Kung-hsin.

In addition to reporting to General Tsao Major Chien has sent a memorandum to the Government dealing with disbandment in Anhui. The main point made by Major Chien is that the Anhui gentry are willing to contribute towards the disbandment of troops in that province.

(China Press Correspondence)

Chuchow, Anhwei, July 13.—Word has just come that four regiments of Anhwei troops, stationed at Szechow, and another smaller group of soldiers at Kucheng on the Tientsin-Pukow Railroad mutinied a few nights ago and undertook to collect a few months' back pay from the local people. Tuchun Chang at Pengpu and his aids have been on a noisy hunt for funds for some months.

The Chuchow official has had to advance considerable sums to the local regiment. In conversation he reported that he was deseiged by telegrams both from Anching and Pengpu asking as to the status of certain funds from which they hoped to extract a part for their uses. Of course every other magistrate in the Province has received similar telegrams.

Meantime the soldiers have been solving the question in their own way. The Chuchow grain dealers this past winter practically stopped trying to ship grain. Soldiers, from up the line, bought nearly all there was to spare. They had it wheeled over to the railroad station and then loaded it on to any convenient passing train, took it to whatever point they wished, without paying freight or carfare, and put all the profits in their pockets. Some of them made regular trips to Shantung where more coppers could be obtained for a dollar than in Anhwei.

They brought the coppers down and dumped them here, thus raising the value of the dollar. Merchants have had to take so much of these coppers that it has well nigh demoralized trade. Nanhsuchow reported this winter that on an average 40 soldiers were dropping off daily at their stations doing this kind of business.

A recent strike of railroad men at Pengpu emphasized another business by which the soldiers are collecting their pay. For some months soldiers at every railroad station have been examining passengers baggage for smuggled opium. It has been long known the soldiers themselves were carrying on this illicit trade. Opium has grown cheap and smokers have multiplied.

The other day at Pengpu, when the down mail train arrived, the soldiers insisted on going through the train itself searching for opium. They claimed the trainmen were infringing on their monopoly and also smuggling opium. The trainmen absolutely refused to allow the searching of the train. The train was in their charge and the soldiers had no legal right to search a passing train. The soldiers insisted, but no opium rewarded their search.

Then they told the trainmen they could proceed with their train down the line but the latter said they could no longer take responsibility for the train and its running as long the soldiers were demanding the privilege of searching it and confiscating whatever they wished. The consequence was the mail train remained in Pengpu all day and as other trains arrived they stopped to keep company.

The Military found themselves with an elephant on their hands. It took a hard day's work before they could satisfy the trainmen. Fortunately the down express had passed earlier in the morning and the evening express did not arrive until after the trouble was settled, but all other trains were thrown off their schedules.

Gallop's Best Bet Is To Appeal To Personal Side Of U. S. Navy Secretary

BY WESTA

Manager Holby Gallop, of the Shanghai baseball team, intends to approach Secretary of the Navy Denby when the latter arrives in Shanghai next week, with a view to inducing him to issue the order necessary to keep more naval vessels in Shanghai, so that the American community here may be assured of competition for the local baseball game.

In this, Holby faces a rather difficult task, particularly in view of the fact that the agents of the Manila Retail Storekeepers' Association, acting in conjunction with the representatives of the Philippine Cock Fighters' league, have already persuaded the American naval authorities that the wild and ferocious Irrigoats who inhabit the Islands are likely to go on a rampage at almost any hour of the day or night, and that the only sure way to prevent them from attempting to seize their independence by main force is to keep every available American warship parked in Manila bay.

All this, of course, is a stall. The Irrigoats are a timid and law abiding race, with no more thought of hopping over the traces than the manager of the Hongkong and Shanghai bank has of setting aside an endowment fund for the benefit of Shanghai spendthrifts. Those birds want to keep the war ships at Manila so they can sell photographic films to the sailors, and profit from their patronage at rooster arguments at a peso a throw.

HOLBY'S HARD JOB

Holby, therefore, will have considerable opposition to overcome, and if he will take our tip he will approach Mr. Denby on what might be called the personal side. Among other things he should play upon the Secretary's well known weakness for baseball, and after once getting the conversation started it would do no harm to refer, casual like, to a certain historic sandlot contest that took place a score of years ago on Jefferson avenue way in Detroit, in which young Denby, who at that time was manager and catcher for the Grosse Point Terrors, participated.

It was in this game that the young man who later was destined to sit in a president's cabinet as head of one of the greatest naval armadas that ever ploughed the seas engineered a play that saved a game for his team, and in addition marked the real starting place of a career that led to both fame and fortune. It was in this play, really, that the Denby millions had their beginning.

The game in question was played on a vacant lot in what is known as "Indian Village," which as anybody who has ever been to the motor car city will tell you is the most aristocratic section of the town. The antecedents of the pseudonym are obscure. It may have been derived from the fact that a tribe of Algonquins once pitched their tepees there, and again it may have been so dubbed by some local wit who took note of the fact that a flock of bankers, with their sons, had elected, at a later day, to pitch their mansions in the neighborhood.

BANKER HAPPENS ALONG

At any rate it so happened that while this historic baseball battle was in its final stages—in the last of the ninth—in fact, the president of Detroit's largest and most corpulent bank happened along, on his way home to supper. In those pioneer days they spoke of the evening meal as supper.

It was the last half of the ninth and Denby's team was one run ahead. There was one man out and the Highland Park Blues, captained by Henry Leland were making desperate efforts to tie the score, an enterprise in which they were on the high road to accomplishment, for they had three on bases and Leland, later president of the Cadillac company, who was their heaviest hitter, at bat. Leland had already slammed out four hits, two of them homers, and he was standing up there at the old flattened tomato can which served as the home plate, with all the confidence in the world, swinging his bat with every indication of a firm determination to drive the pellet clear across the St. Clair river.

Manager Denby was not catching that day, being out of the game with a busted finger, the result of a run-in with a foul tip. In his enforced absence from the line-up he had entrusted the Terror backstopping job to Henry Joy, later president of the Packard Motor Car company.

A TOUGH SITUATION

That was the layout—the Terrors one run ahead, one man down, three of the enemy on the paths, Slugger Leland at the bat, the bank president standing on the sidelines with his eyes popping out, and Denby, with his crippled finger, on the bench. It was what you might call a crucial situation for the Terrors.

Henry Ford, pitching for the Terrors that day, broke one over the outside corner of the tomato can and Leland, swinging viciously, missed it. Ford's next was a curve of his own invention, called the planetary twist, so named because it twists in its flight like a planet in its race around the sun, and from which the planetary transmission in the present day flivver gets its name. Leland swung at it—and hit what probably was the most disputed foul fly in all the history of baseball, amateur or professional.

The instant the ball left Leland's bat and while it was still in the air, Denby, who was standing on the sidelines only a few feet from the excited bank president, saw at a glance that neither the catcher nor third baseman on his team would be able to get it, but that he, Denby, would.

So he yelled at the top of his voice, although that was altogether unnecessary in the deathlike silence that prevailed at the time, these eight words—words that in subsequent years drove many Detroiters into the bughouse, and which even yet lead to arguments that break up Detroit friendships, and even families:

"You're out of the game, Henry I'm catching!"

An instant later he caught the foul, retiring Leland, and then walked over to relieve Joy of his catching asignment.

Then followed the first of the chain of arguments that is still unbroken, even after all these years. Denby, insisting upon his right under the rules, to change a player at any time during the game, finally convinced the umpire that he was right, and was allowed to finish the game. That was two out, and slugger Leland disposed of, and as the next man up was retired on a pop-up to the shortstop, the game ended with the Terrors still in possession of their one run lead.

A HAPPY SEQUEL

The sequel of this was that the bank president, after recovering from what was almost an apoplectic stroke, walked over to young Denby, and raising his voice above the din that was raging over the decision of the umpire,, who in the meantime had fled for his life, said:

"Young man, that was the quickest thinking I ever saw in my life. Come to my office tomorrow morning."

The next morning Mr. Denby went to the banker's office, and as a result of his interview with that great financial captain, was soon on his way to the fame and fortune that are now so deservedly his.

Mr. Gallop, therefore, if he plays his cards right when the Secretary comes here, will approach him from this, the personal side. That is his best chance to offset the malign influence which the Rampageous Rooster Breeders' association of Manila now exerts over the United States navy, and which prevents the people of Shanghai from having a sufficient number of sailors in this port to assure an abundance of baseball games.

P.S.—There will be carping critics who will at once rise up to explain that such a play as this couldn't have happened under the rules. Their attention is called to the fact that this famous game took place more than twenty years ago, and that under the rules as they stood at that time the play was strictly legitimate. It was just such quick thinking—and acting—on the part of intelligent ball players like Mr. Denby that forced the baseball legislators to revise and extend the rules to their present state of perfection.

Baseball Today!

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the Shanghai baseball team will play a selected navy team at the race track grounds. The sailor team will be made up of players chosen from the three naval vessels now in port, the Isabel, The Rizal and the Hart. Captain Hopkins would not predict yesterday who would pitch, but as all the members of the local twirling staff have had a good rest they will all be ready for action. Manager Holby Gallop suggests that all the Shanghai candidates come to the park, as all are likely to get a chance, particularly if the heat is as unreasonable as it was yesterday.

Cricket

The following team will represent the S.R.C. in a friendly match commencing at 2:15 p.m. today with the Shanghai Public School on the S.R.C. grounds: F. O. Madar, A. J. Willis, W. T. Manley, R. T. Ryton, J. W. Brierley, A. Ferguson, G. V. Jensen, J. V. Jensen, V. Evans, H. J. Ambrose and H. J. Cooper (Captain). Reserves: J. Mahon and E. A. Cooke.

The following will represent the Parsees Cricket Club in the match with the S.C.C. to be played at 2:30 p.m. today on the Police Ground: C. H. Bhoora, M. J. Divecha (Capt.), E. D. Damri, J. R. Deboo, K. D. Karanjia, C. C. Mavelwalla, J. D. Noria, P. Mistry, J. H. Shroff, S. F. Shroff and V. Viccajee. Reserves: K. C. Sarkari and A. Petigura.

GINK SUCCUMBS TO GOLFITIS

Minor Attack Of Suburban Bowling Carries Famous Umpire Off

Postscript—

I can readily understand why Gink was pinched for taking to himself with earmuffs on.

What did that fine example of the parole system do when he was umpiring or running?

Yours for the last time,
J. GOULD.

When Gink wasn't umpiring or running, he was doing both.

In his more clossal moments, Gink played golf.

He was a chatter member of the Roughtown County Club, whose business it was to place working men within the reach of niblicks.

The Country Club was in Roughtown City so as to be more convenient for the police vans.

It was the only city golf course in the country.

Gink was superhuman. No gentleman was admitted to the Roughtown golf sanitarium unless accompanied by a member.

There was only one other member beside Gink. And they were both scared of each other.

The other bim was The Glutt, the greatest rival that Gink had on the police blotters. The Glutt used to cry because he had only two thumbs to be printed. All golf in Roughtown was run by the Bertillon system.

The home green was a wharf. You started in a wagon and drove off.

There were no lockers in the gymnasium because the members knew each other too well to leave any money within wishing distance of other members.

Gink had The Glutt six up and no place to go, when The Glutt sprained a stymie.

This golf course was so tough that they apprenticed Jesse James to a caddie.

All the clubs were made by Krupps. Even Gink's straw hat was a Winchester. It was a repeater.

Roughtown was the place when the hens were so tough that they had to scramble eggs in a concrete mixer.

The plans for the clubhouse were palatial. Gink sent The Glutt out with a bag of revolvers to sell bonds to build.

The Glutt attacked the Boe Scoots and came back with a handful of marbles.

CONCRETE ROAD UNDER HARD TEST FOR DURABILITY

(Chung Mei Service)

Washington, June 15. (United Press).—To throw more light on the durability of concrete a wear test is to be made with the conditions approximating those actually found on the road. This test will include about 66 sections of concrete wearing surface, each section being of a different quality of concrete.

On this runway will be operated a specially constructed car with two truck wheels equipped with solid rubber tires and loaded to represent a truck. The car will be guided by small railroad rail to hold it in position, the power being applied by means of an electric motor to the rear wheel. This apparatus will be operated around the circular runway at a speed of probably 20 miles an hour. The test will involve the use of truck wheels equipped with different kinds of tires and will include the use of non-skid chains. A steel-tired wheel will probably also be used to get the effect of an accelerated wear test.

The object of this experiment is to determine the relative wear of the different concrete sections when subjected to traffic equipped with different types of wheel, also to furnish a comparison between actual service conditions and laboratory tests. This test will be in operation continuously beginning some time in June.

TIENTSIN JEALOUS

Peking, July 12.—The citizens of Tientsin are now jealous of the municipal self government to be instituted in Peking on September 1. They claim that Tientsin is just as well equipped for her citizens to run the goverment as Peking is. They are going to petition the President to grant them the same privilege.

Peking, July 12.—The telegraph administration of Chungkiang announces that it can no longer guarantee the delivery of telegrams owing to the fighting in that vicinity. The troops of General Liu Hsiang and General Hsiung Kai-wu have an engagement at four places, namely Wanshien, Chungchow, Tienkang and Hochow. The result has not been received as yet. The first and second armies were engaged in this fray and as they are both Szechuan forces, the struggle is a personal one between the two generals to determine which shall be the military overlord of the Province. Although the fighting was within a hundred miles of Chung king, that city is reported to be very quiet and apparently unaffected.

Oil Company Sees Fine Outlook Ahead

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—At the annual meeting of the Burma Oil Co., Ltd., Sir J. T. Cargill, presiding, said that the reasonable hope of this year proving a good one was fairly well founded. The actual saving in 1921 was small and trading results were down owing to the decline in the value of the rupee and reduction in market values. Gross profits were also down on the whole of last year. Enterprise in India was handicapped by increased taxation and working costs. The position was satisfactory in other fields, except in Trinidad, and geological opinion favored further efforts. The prices of paraffin-wax and candles were weakening and the output of crude oil had been augmented. The outlook for the future was satisfactory.

The reports and accounts were unanimously adopted.

FOREIGN WOMAN FINED $100 AS BROTHEL KEEPER

Verna Glynn Case Ends With Guilty Plea In Mixed Court

Agreement by Verna Glynn to close the brothel which she has conducted at 53 Kiangse Road within two weeks, and a plea of guilty to the charge brought against her in the Mixed Court of conducting an unlicensed brothel, yesterday ended the somewhat protracted case resulting from investications conducted by the Shanghai Moral Welfare Society.

British Assessor Blackburn, and Magistrate Li, after refusing to waive jurisdiction on the claim of Mrs. Glynn's attorney, Dr. O. Fischer, that she was a Peruvian citizen, entered a fine of $100.

At yesterday's hearing, Dr. Fischer explained that Peruvian Minister to Japan had jurisdiction also in China. He had endeavored to communicate with him, he said, but had been unable to obtain a reply. He requested a further remand in the case but the court, in assuming jurisdiction, declared that the purpose of the Mixed Court was to function not only in the cases of Chinese, but in charges brought against any foreigners not represented by Consuls. It is up to the consuls, the court held, to show that they are prepared to look after their citizens.

In entering the plea of guilty, Dr. Fischer said that his client had already made all arrangements to go out of business, and that an auction of her household goods was to be held on July 29. He asked that she be cautioned and dismissed.

The defendant created quite a stir when at the conclusion of the trial she stepped out of the prisoner's dock and accosted Dr. Frank W. Rawlinson of the Moral Welfare Society and requested him to pay certain 'chits' signed by investigators. Dr. Rawlinson answered that one man, who, she said, had signed 'chits' during and before the investication, was not a member of the society.

Peking, July 10.—Dr. C. C. Wu, son of the late Dr. Wu Ting-fang has replied to the telegram of sympathy sent him by the Peking Government. He said that his father worked for the protection of the constitution in Canton for six years, his sole aim being for the good of the Republic and its people.

Having used all his energy toward this end, when the recent political upheaval came in Canton, he was not strong enough to stand the worry and strain, his son said, he laid down his life at 1.15 on the morning of June 23 in the Canton Public Hospital.

Marconi Got No Signals From Mars

BEFORE he reached New York on his yacht, Elettra, on which he has been conducting wireless experiments, Guglielmo Marconi, perfector of wireless telephony and telegraphy, wirelessed that he had received no signals from the planet Mars. Mr. Marconi last Winter picked up a signal on a 150,000-meter wave length, and he figured it must have come from one of the planets, since no wave length ever employed on this hemisphere ever approximated such a figure.

Kiangsi Troops Poorly Equipped

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, July 10.—Among the troops being hurried to the front about Kian and Foochow was a company of over a hundred men whose complete marching equipment consisted of a canteen, umbrella and fan each, and for the entire company seven guns. This company is said to be as well equipped as many of the companies that have been going south.

Local blacksmiths have been busy for the last two weeks hammering out ugly Chinese sabres, or executioners knives and soldiers without guns are being rapidly equipped with these. They will probably be much more effective than unloaded guns, and most certainly are uglier.

People of Kiangsi approve the innovation because of its money saving possibilities and because of the fact that there is less danger for the innocent bystander, and when they are paying the bills, and doing the innocent bystander act to boot they have a right to be pleased.

U. S. And Canada To Sign New Pact

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 13.—The Canadian Prime Minister, Mr. King, and the Minister of Defence, Mr. Graham, called on Mr. Hughes at the State Department today in connection with the Canadian proposals permanently to revise the century-old Rush-Bagot Agreement for Canadian and American military defences in accordance with the decisions of the Washington Conference.

The Agreement is subject to cancellation at six months' notice and therefore lacks the element of permanency. It is probable that a new treaty will be negotiated.

Mr. King, in the course of a statement, said that he was most gratified at Mr. Hughes's sympathetic reception of his proposals and added that Canada desired a permanent understanding with regard to armaments in order to effect lasting economies.

Other matters were discussed including measures for the protection and conservation of the fisheries in Eastern and Western Canada and in international waters beyond the three-mile limit.

Lessons For Noted Russian Communist

At the Vieux-Colombier Theater in Paris there has been produced a farce by M. Rene Benjamin, the first act of which has particularly attracted attention. A waitress who on her own account carries on the struggle of the classes purposely drops a whole tea set, while the master of the house and his guests, forewarned, pretend not to have noticed anything and calmly continue their conversation. Ashamed and vexed, the servant goes off crying and picking up the pieces. One divines that she is disgusted with direct action and that it will be a long time before she intentionally breaks tea sets again.

"In a certain sense," says Andre Billy in "Le Petit Parisien," "is this method which was adopted in Genoa by the King of Italy, who was not afraid to offer a lunch to Tchitcherin, the ferocious Communist. The King of Italy knows full well that the delegate from Moscow thinks of hurling to the ground not only his tea service but also his throne, and with it his own person, but he deems it wise and tactful to pretend complete ignorance of the communistic designs and to shake Tchitcherin's hand as though nothing had happened as though the Bolshevists had not killed his colleague Nicholas II, the imperial family and thousands of Russian aristocrats and bourgeoisie.

"The King of Italy flatters himself no doubt that he will thus awaken remorse in Tchitcherin's heart. He hopes that, once back in Moscow, Lenine's co-workers, like M. Rene Benjamin's waitress, will break out in tears and say: 'It was certainly not worth while to commit so many atrocities, since the kings and ministers of bourgeois Europe do not even think of reproaching us. Old friend Lenine, those people are stronger than we. If we were to cut their throats they would hardly deign to take note of it. Under those conditions, and since we have lamentably failed in producing an effect, the little game of massacre and terrorism which we have been playing now ceases to be funny. Let us renounce it. Let us renounce communism. Let us become civilised people. Down with the dictatorship of the proletariat! Long live the liberal republic!'

"It is at any rate certain that at the luncheon given on the Dante Alighieri the person most surprised at seeing himself there was not King Victor Emanuel: it was Tchitcherin. It would not be surprising if in his astonishment he had broken the whole tea set—but without doing so intentionally. And is not the breaking of something unintentionally the beginning of wisdom for a Communist?"

Vest-Pocket Beer Latest In Germany

Tabloid beer is apparently to be the next device for economy and convenience in Germany. It is announced in Berlin that an inventor has succeeded in preparing tablets which, dissolved in water, produce beer, after the fashion of the long-familiar bouillon tablets and capsules. There will be Culmbach tablets, Radebery tablets, etc. The immense importance of the invention is evident without further explanation. The transportation of beer will in future be much cheaper and spoiling is avoided. Everybody will be able to carry in his pocket the quantity of beer he wants to drink daily.

And almost simultaneously another Berlin paper reports another invention of an artificial beer. This involves the production of an 8 percent beer without malt. The new process has been so perfected that already the name for this new product under the designation of Brauersest is protected, and a patent upon the process has been applied for. The costs of the production are 47 percent cheaper than of the natural beer. The innovation is based on the discovery of a vegetable matter that can take the place of the malt. It is not corn, rice or wheat, but another cheaper product.

The new beer can be produced with the existing machines, utensils and workmen. Fermenting proceeds in the same way as with ordinary beer. Furthermore, Brauersest contains natral carbon, pure alcohol, sugar, dextrine hops and water; it can be produced dark and light, foams easily as beer and is transportable in kegs and bottles.

(Translation)
RICE PROFITEERING.

From investigations made by the Council into the causes contributing to the present abnormally high price of rice, it appears that, in their greed for personal gain and unmindful of the hardships and suffering caused to poor people, certain persons have accumulated stocks of rice, which they are withholding from the market, creating a temporary shortage of supplies, and forcing up the price to an unwarranted figure.

Rice is the staple food of the Chinese people, and profiteering or speculating in the food of the people is an offence against the law, and severely punishable.

Notice is accordingly given that any persons profiteering in rice, whether by the withholding of stocks or by any other means, are liable to prosecution with severe penalties on conviction, and with confiscation of their stocks.

The public is earnestly requested to report any cases of rice profiteering that may come to its knowledge. Such reports should be in writing, addressed to the Commissioner of Police, Central Police Station, Foochow Road, and should give as full particulars as possible, so as to facilitate prosecution against the concerned.

By Order,
N. O. LIDDELL.
Secretary and Commissioner General.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

July 14, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each unchanged in London and New York yesterday.

The London-New York cross rate improved to 444⅛.

At the opening the market rate was uncertain but it became steady during the course of the day. The lowest rates at which business was done were 3s. 5⅞d. for Sterling and 77⅛ for Gold Dollars. However, at one time as high as 3s. 6¼d. for Sterling and 78¼ for Gold Dollars was done.

There were always good buyers at these rates and the market closed steady with sellers of Sterling at 3s. 6d. and of Gold Dollars at 77⅞. There were buyers at 3s. 6⅛d. for Sterling and 78 for Gold Dollars.

India bought silver again in London yesterday and China sold.

The market there as well as in New York is reported as steady.

Paris, July 13.—The Paris-London crossrate is quoted today at:

British Exports Show Big Increase, Imports Decline

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 12.—The Board of Trade returns show that imports for June amounted to £84,298,000, a decrease of £3,873,000 as compared with June last year, and exports to £52,145,000, an increase of £15,993,000.

Political Outlook Acute In Germany

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, July 13.—The political situation is again acute as a result of a conference of the leaders of the trade-unions, the Majority Socialists and the Independent Socialists, at which considerable doubt was expressed whether the Socialist parties would accept the Defence of the Republic Bills in their present form.

Rejection of the Bills would make dissolution of the Reichstag unavoidable.

The Majority Socialists reaffirmed their demand that the Independent Socialists should enter the Government in order to form a decisive Republican majority.

The result of the discussion was communicated to Dr. Wirth, who considered it so serious that he telegraphed to President Ebert, who is immediately returning to Berlin from Fredenstadt, where he was spending a holiday.

Separate Pacts With Soviet Now Thought Likely

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—The failure of the Hague Conference is received by the papers with regret but not with surprise as the prospect of a satisfactory issue was remote from the outset owing to the fundamental conflict of views on the subject of property.

The failure is regarded as indicating that the Genoa policy is definitely wound up, and proving that all countries are suffering from the same economic disorders and are unable to agree on collective remedies.

The important question now is the future relations of Russia with Western Europe and it is expected that negotiation of separate agreements will now be stimulated.

It is known that Italy is eager to do so and there is a strong body of British opinion in favor of such a course but in this complications with France and Belgium must be expected.

Austrian Radio Goes To Marconi

(Reuter's Service)

Vienna, July 13.—A concession has been granted to a company, in which Marconis hold a controlling interest, to take over Austrain wireless stations and to erect and operate new stations for a minimum period of thirty years.

A little and good

THERE is a distinguishing feature in the business of the house of HAIG & HAIG. Most Distillers have various brands of varying qualities. HAIG & HAIG have one brand only, and they claim (and the public acclaim) that it is the finest that goes from Scotland.

It is a regrettable fact that all retailers have not the same high standard of commercial honesty, and it is known that cheaper brands are sometimes passed on to the public under the label of houses of high repute.

When you see a genuine bottle of HAIG & HAIG Five Stars Scots Whisky it will be the same fine quality in London, in Lucknow, or in Labrador; in the Langham Hotel, in the G.O.H. at Colombo, and in the best Clubs in Cape Town.

Haig & Haig Five Stars Scots Whisky

A second quality Haig & Haig could not be filled into a Haig & Haig bottle because there isn't a second quality.

Haig & Haig is also known easily by the fact that you pay a little extra for it.

Say HAIG & HAIG or you may get a cheaper brand substituted.

On the principle that "a little and good" is better for you, you can be gently stimulated by the use of Haig & Haig at no increased cost

W.H.C. FLAT SUPER-DURABLE PAINT

FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

A Home For Shanghai's Art, Science And Literature

Note: It must have come as a particularly delectable burst of news to the French community while it was engaged in celebrating the French National Holiday that the magnificent home of the French club is in all probability soon to be made the home and center of Shanghai Art, Literature and Science. The French Club, beautiful and spacious as it is, is not large enough to accommodate the steadily increasing membership, and a new club house and lawns will be built at Verdun Gardens. Mr. A. de C. Sowerby's happy suggestion at last week's meeting of the Rotary Club came at a propitious moment, just when there was a chance to get the present French Club House, and the Rotarians are to be congratulated on their expedition in launching a movement to raise the requisite funds. All Shanghai, we feel assured, will unite with eagerness and enthusiasm in support of this most laudable project. In the subjoined article Mr. Sowerby, at the request of The China Press, sets the scheme forth in further detail:

BY A. DE C. SOWERBY

I THINK Shanghai is to be congratulated on having in its midst a body of "live-wire" men like the members of the Rotary Club. I felt certain, after the way they received my address the other day, that something would happen, but I did not dream that it would happen so soon and so effectively. Now I am certain that before long Shanghai is going to have a fine public institution that will be the home of Art, Literature, and Science.

The French Club building, as far as I can make out, is an excellent place, eminently suited to the purposes proposed, and one that would need but little alteration. Already, in my mind's eye, I see the fine dancing ball hung with beautiful pictures, old Chinese masters. The stage remains, and from it, from time to time lectures upon intellectual matters are dilvered. A fine reference library fills one of the large rooms, and tables, with comfortable chairs are dotted about the floor, and at them sit students, or possibly dilettantes, diving into the ancient lore of the East. In another part are the collections of biological specimens, well set up and displayed for the edification of youthful Shanghai—it's all too wonderful for words!

May I offer some suggestions? The first thing to concentrate upon is to get the building. The collections can wait once you have somewhere to place the things in safe keeping, you will be surprised at the way material, after treasures of great value, will roll in. I would not be a bit surprised if, for instance, the Royal Asiatic Society, if approached, would not be willing to let the new museum have its collection of biological and other material to form a nucleus of further collections. Perhaps, too, they would be willing to place their fine library of books on things oriental in the building, in exchange for a permanent home for it and the Society. There are many patrons of Chinese Art in Shanghai who must have valuable pictures, bronzes, porcelains, etc., that they would be willing to present.

But the building, and funds to run it, an adequate staff, and so on, are the things to attend to first.

The nucleus committee as appointed by the Rotarians is a splendid one. Doubtless they will have no difficulty in inducing other prominent citizens of Shanghai, the heads of important firms, to join them. A personal appeal for funds, similar to that made by the Americans last winter for a school, I am certain, would have the desired result. The scheme only wants organising.

In connection with every big museum in England and America there are strong societies, and why not have the same here? Why should not a Philosophical Society of China be formed in connection with this new museum? In London we have such societies as the Zoological Society, working in close cooperation with the Natural History Museum in South Kensington. In Washington there is the Biological Society of Washington. In New York there is the Zoological Society. These great societies have Patrons, wealthy men who are not necessarily keenly interested in Zoology, but who are sympathetic to the aims and activities of the institutions they help. Why cannot we have the same in China? There is an enormous field of research in this country no matter in what branch you like to delve. But the literature on each subject is required before that research work can be carried out. In archeology, anthropology, art, botany, zoology, literature, the ground out here has only been scratched. Why should not the work be done on the spot, instead of as at present, collections being made and sent home to Europe or America to be worked out? No reason at all.

Sir, I hope and trust, nay, I am sure, that the scheme will come to full and ample fruition. Let everybody join in and help, and let none rest till Shanghai has a building and institution worthy of its size, importance, and traditions.

"Relativity" Film

Explaining the theory of relativity discovered by Professor Albert Einstein is the latest development of moving pictures. Recently the "Einstein Theory" film (or to give the picture its full title, "The Basic Principle of the Theory of Relativity"), was produced in Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany.

Although the project met with his immediate approval, Professor Einstein absorbed in his university and scientific work, has not been concerned in the actual preparation of the film. That task has been carried out by his friend, Professor Nicolai (the ex-Kaiser's physician, whose airplane escape to Holland constituted one of the most intense personal dramas of the war), assisted by a group of young German men of science, followers of Einstein.

According to reports, from the exclusively cinematographic point of view, the "relativity film" represents a very striking advance, in that for the first time a series of intricate problems and subtle scientific conceptions are explained by means of screen pictures so clearly and so logically as to enable even the uneducated to get a general grasp of the subject treated.

The film is over 2,000 meters (6,500 feet) long and comprises 75,000 different photographs. The greatest accuracy was demanded, alike of the men of science whose duty it was to manipulate the models used to illustrate the "Relativats" theory, and of the cameramen. On several occasions a movement too rapid by a fraction of a second necessitated the retaking of hundreds of photographs.

The Happiest Age

Some sage has arisen to remark that human life up to about fifty years ago was not worth living, and that only the inventions and institutions of the last half-century have made human life happy.

Unfortunately, there is no way accurately to gauge the degree of happiness of any period, or even to define exactly what happiness is.

All we can know for certain is that the happiness of our own times is the best that is attainable to us, and lucky is he who gets his share of it.

The masses of mankind, until this century almost dumb, now make heard their sufferings and dissatisfactions. The woes of centuries are finding utterance through many new devices for the transmission of the free speech of today. The wail may cause the unthinking to suppose that the sun of human happiness is suddenly obscured. But, to the contrary, the remedies following the better understanding of wrong conditions steadily improve the conditions under which happiness may become more general. The more we hear of wrongs, the less wrongs we will have.

Philosophers may wrangle about it until doomsday, and no doubt they will; but the age which knows the least earthly misery and woe is the one that has been longest dead, and the generation that can best know what happiness is and realize its fullest possession is a long time yet unborn.

Communicating With The Other World

A Review by
SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

Communications with the next World. The Right and the Wrong Methods. A Textbook given by William T. Stead from "Beyond the Veil" through Mme. Hyver, Edited by Estelle W. Stead. New York: George H. Doran Company.

Experienced spiritualists look with deep suspicion upon all posthumous productions which have great names attached to them. Too much have we suffered from Shakespeares who cannot write, Shelleys who cannot scan and Coleridges who have lost all virility of thought. They are usually either subconscious personalities of the writer, manifesting in unexpected ways, or, as we hold, they may be the work of pompous and foolish entities in the beyond, for, since the essence of our creed is that death makes no difference to the personality, we must be surrounded by such undeveloped natures. I have seen a few cases, and only a few, where the style and the matter were so characteristic that all my literary instincts told me that it was the man himself. I remember, for example, a very beautiful piece of English purporting to come from Oscar Wilde which contained a description of the Arctic Sea, "Waters of foaming jade," which was as clearly his as if I had seen him write it.

This little book may also, in my opinion, be accepted at its face value. The evidence seems as clear as possible. We have the fact that Miss Stead was told that the information would come through a French medium—a most unlikely thing for any one to imagine or invent—and then the actual fulfillment. An excellent reason is given also, since the writer declares that he wanted a clear slate, and not one which had already been marked or blurred by personal contact with himself.

The result justifies the attempt, as the book constitutes the clearest revelation which we have had of the nature and difficulties of mediumship as seen from the other side. Our own usual division is, roughly, that this strange and sacred power, which is probably latent in all of us, though it is predominant in a few, can best be divided into external and internal. The former covers all physical phenomena, lights, movements, levitations and other signs of power which are, in our opinion, signs and wonders to attract the attention of mankind and lead him to consider the spiritual forces which lie behind them. Internal mediumship would include the gift of hearing, the gift of discerning spirits, of trance utterance, of spirit possession, of automatic writing, and all other intellectual manifestations of a power outside ourselves. The writer of this book brings out with great clearness the fact that a discarnate entity has grave difficulties in reaching us and in manifesting in matter. The unreasonable people who are continually asking why do not spirits do this or that make no allowance for these difficulties, which are so great that the writer professes herself to be astonished that they have been able to accomplish so much as they have, considering the wretched response which they have met with from us. He is insistent upon the fact that if we accustom ourselves to the view that we are spirits here and now, refusing to submit to complete submergence in matter, that will lift our plane up so much nearer to theirs that communication will be much easier.

Of all forms of mediumship, the intuitive or indirect appears to be the most safe. It is the one with which I am myself most familiar, as I have a supreme example of it in my own family. In this case the writer is perfectly normal all the time, and her brain can tell a second or so in advance what the written word will be, and yet the total message, though often lacking absolute detail in names and dates, is most clearly from outside her own organism. Here, then, is none of that fear of obsession which may be justified when the whole body is given up to an outside visitor, and yet many great trance mediums whom I have known have enjoyed as good health and as well-balanced minds as their fellows. On the whole, as the writer concludes, it would be well for those who are hysterical or weak to avoid any contact with such a form of communication.

The book is sane, moderate and conservative to a degree which some spiritualists would consider excessive. It bears the mark of deep thought and mellow wisdom. Nothing of greater authority has ever appeared upon the subject, though it is only the advanced psychic student who will appreciate how weighty are the judgments expressed.

Habitability Of Other Worlds

That always interesting question of whether other worlds really are inhabited has been made more interesting by recent studies of the Smithsonian Institution. The following consideration of the subject was prepared by H. G. Abbot, Assistant Secretary of the Institution.

In considering the probability of the existence of intelligent life on other heavenly bodies than the earth, it will be convenient to take these up in several groups, dealing first with those in which conditions are so different from ours that the existence of life seems impossible.

The moon is our nearest neighbor and co-planet with ourselves. Astronomers usually call the earth the planet and the moon merely a satellite. Except for unequal size one is as much a planet and as much a satellite as the other. They revolve together around the sun, and rotate together about their common center of gravity. But, as the earth is of four times the great diameter as the moon and is eighty-one times as massive, it is the controlling member of the partnership, and swings the moon as the big boy at school does the little one in the game of "crack the whip."

At 240,000 miles distance the moon is beautifully seen and studied by the aid of a telescope. It is a waterless, airless, mountainous desert. There is no probability whatever that intelligent beings can be there.

What of our great benefactor, the sun? No living thing, scarcely even the hardest chemical compound, can exist there because of the intense heat. On earth the hottest thing is the electric arc, which not only melts but turns into gas every substance. The spectroscope and the heat-measuring appliances show that the solar temperature is almost twice as great as that of the arc. Hydrogen would not burn in pure oxygen on the sun, but water, if it could ever reach there as steam, would be instantly separated into these component gases.

Circling the sun, beyond the orbit of the earth, lie five great planets—Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. Within the earth's orbit there are two, Venus and Mercury.

The planets naturally divide into two equal groups, whose members differ significantly in density. The four inner planets, Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars, are not very unlike in this respect. Of the four outer planets, Jupiter, the most dense, is only 1.3 times as heavy as an equal volume of water. We have hardly any earth, stones or metals so light as this. It is most probable that these four planets are mainly gaseous. For this reason alone it would be unreasonable to think of them as proper abodes of intelligent life, but we have also to consider the temperature conditions which probably prevail in the outer planets.

TEMPERATURE OF PLANETS

The temperature of the sunlit surface of the full moon appears to be probably between the freezing and boiling points of water. The dark side appears to be exceedingly cold. Estimates of the temperatures of the other planets are as follows: Sun, 12,000 degrees Fahrenheit; Mercury, 450; Venus, 68; earth, 59; moon, 50; Mars, 60; Jupiter, 270; Saturn, 320; Uranus, 380; Neptune, 400.

From this we see that, if the sun is the sole source of heat and light, the supposed inhabitants of Neptune, Uranus, Saturn and Jupiter would probably be much more unfavorably situated than the Eskimos in their climatic conditions. The mass and volume of the planets are not such as to warrant us in the belief that they can still have, at their immense ages, sources of heat within themselves which can supplement to a usual degree the sun as the supporter of life, unless possibly such might be the case with Jupiter. On the whole, the probabilities of intelligent life on the four outer planets cannot be regarded as considerable.

As is well known, the stars are but suns and the sun our nearest star. Hence the tremendous temperature which prevails in the sun and prevents us from supposing for a moment that the sun is capable of being an abode for intelligent life must be regarded as an equally effectual bar against the existence of life upon the other stars. But, just as the sun has a train of planets and satellites which revolve about it, one might assume that the other stars should be similarly attended. To be sure, no such planetary trains have been reported by telescopic or spectroscopic observers, but that would not be expected. The distances of the stars are so immense and the disparity of brightness between a body like the sun and a body shining by reflected sunlight, like one of the planets, is so enormous that it is not to be supposed that a single one of these supposed starry worlds would be visible even if they existed in almost countless numbers. In illustration of the enormous difference in light-giving powers, it may be remarked that at equal distances the sun would be roughly 1,500,000,000 times as bright as the earth.

The spectroscope, as readers well know, is sometimes capable of indicating the presence of bodies that are invisible to the telescope. Thus there are large numbers of binary and multiple stars in which the components of the system are so close together that the telescope cannot see them separately, but which, on account of their rotation about a common center, give slight displacements of the spectrum lines owing to motions in their orbits toward and from us in line of sight. It is not even necessary that the component bodies should both be light-giving. It has been observed in the case of binary stars whose orbits lie in such a plane that the two bodies alternately eclipse each other that one may be light-giving and the other dark, yet in the revolution of the light-giving component around the center its spectrum lines are shifted, and, of course, a variation in its light is caused when it is partly eclipsed by its companion. Without even partially eclipsing the companion, one of these dark bodies may yet, by its gravitational attraction, cause such a rapid motion in the bright star as to indicate its presence by the shifting of spectrum lines. This, however, can only be detected when the dark companion is large enough to produce an orbit of some considerable dimensions.

MANY PLANETS INVISIBLE

In the case of our planetary system the attractions of any and all of the planets are not sufficient to displace the sun appreciably to such spectroscopic observations. Such would probably be the case with other stars. It seems certain that an immense number of dark planetary bodies may exist as companions to the stars without our being able to detect their existence by the powerful spectroscopic and telescopic means at our command.

To us the question has narrowed itself to this: Are Mercury, Venus and Mars fit for habitation? The answer requires us to consider for a moment the most important requisites of life. Animals live on plants. Plants require warmth, light, water, carbon compounds and certain inorganic salts. But are we justified in supposing that in a climate where water would be changed to ice or steam life would be impossible? It is difficult to conceive that water in the solid form of ice would serve a living being as a prime part of his make-up. Where would be the flexibility of motion required to circulate the food and carry on the functions of the body? It may, indeed, be urged that other liquids might take the place of water. But the properties of water are unique. An almost universal solvent, its solutions possess electrical and chemical properties so far more wonderful than any others that comparison is impossible.

Aside from water, one must insist on the element carbon as indispensible to life. The spectroscope teaches us that all the heavenly bodies are of the same chemical elements. Our earth has samples of all of the star-building materials and we know well their combinations. Among all these elements there is none that has the versatility of carbon. Its compounds are innumerable and of the most bewildering complexity. It only can be the basis of life, which seems to require the most complex of the mysterious intricacies of carbon chain building for its simplest creatures. These complex life substances, however, are broken down by temperatures like steam, and are mostly rigid at temperatures like that of ice. Within this temperaure range, from freezing to boiling, we must believe lies all the theater of animal and vegetable life.

Many popular writers have claimed great things for Mars as the abode of life. I cannot accept this view. Director Campbell of Lick Observatory, in two widely different and extremely thorough researches, satisfied astronomers that the water vapor in the Martian atmosphere is less than one-fifth of the trifling quantity which prevails over Mount Hamilton in the coldest clear nights of Winter. Thus, without the earth's moist atmospheric blanket, and with only 0.6 the solar heat, the average Martian temperature should be 60 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. Telescopic observations reveal no clouds on Mars. Its most talked-of features are dimly visible markings called fancifully by some "canals," but by observers like Barnard, Hale, and others studying under ideal conditions, regarded merely as irregularities in the planet's contour and soil composition, which at the immense distance are on the limit of telescopic vision and take on one shape or another according to the observer's interpretation.

MARS ALWAYS A PUZZLE

All observers, of course, are agreed as to the existence of markings and shadings of color on Mars, but to suppose that we see the engineering works of intelligent beings is merely fanciful. As for the polar caps which form and melt with the Martian seasons, the best opinion is in doubt whether these may be thin deposits of hoar frost from the traces of water vapor in the atmosphere, or frozen carbonic acid gas, which, in view of the low temperature of Mars, is perhaps as probable.

Mercury being surely uninhabitable, and Mars most certainly inhospitable, there remains only Venus among the planets as a probable abode for intelligent life. Here we must be struck by the favorable aspect. A twin planet to the earth in size and mass, its high reflecting power seems to show that Venus is largely covered by clouds indicative of abundant moisture; probably at almost identical temperatures to ours, our sister planet appears lacking in no essential to habitability.

Some writers have said that, owing to the supposed period of rotation of Venus on its own axis being equal to its period of revolution around the sun, just as occurs in the case of the moon with respect to the earth, Venus must always present the same side towards the sun, and that therefore the one half would be in extremest cold and the other in a most blistering heat. Dr. A. Graham Bell has pointed out to me in conversation, however, that this view of things is most improbable. The reflecting power of Venus has been carefully determined and, as given above, lies in the neighborhood of 60 percent. So high a reflecting power demands apparently the existence of clouds, and these clouds can hardly be of any other substance than water. If it were a fact that the rotation period of Venus is equal to its period of revolution around the sun, all of the water would be distilled from the hot side to the cold side and these clouds would disappear. These evidences alone seem to me to be sufficient to overcome the observational evidence which indicates the equality of periods of rotation and revolution.

"A Good Time" In The A. R. A.

An Answer To The Georgia Senator's Attack On The Hoover Relief Workers In Europe

BY MARIE C. CHOMEL

Senator Watson of Georgia is quoted as saying that "Herbert Hoover has been accused constantly with having paid extravagant salaries to men and women who did nothing but go around Europe in limousines and have a good time."

It so happens that for the last year and a half I have been in a position to see a good deal of the men (the American Relief Administration does not employ women relief workers) who are charged with the distribution of American charity in Central Europe and Russia—an opportunity which the Southern Senator has not enjoyed.

I am able, therefore, to speak from actual experience, and it occurs to me that the American people may be interested in a few facts concerning the actual use to which the money donated by the public—and later augmented by Congress—has been put. Not, I hasten to add, by way of refutation of Mr. Watson's absurd talk, but because the American people have performed the most idealistic charity in the world's history, and many of them remain, perhaps, unaware of the real glory of their act.

I can assure Mr. Watson that a woman's natural curiosity and a trained sense of observation combined gave me a pretty keen insight into what was going on. My investigations were not made as a relief worker, but as a writer on special assignments, looking in from the outside.

Well, I will begin by saying that I have been an interested witness of the American Relief Administration's operations in every country in Europe.

Its personnel is made up of the most remarkable group of American business executives ever brought together in one organisation. Were these men banded together in a commercial proposition they would prove irresistible—a business sensation.

Even today I get funny little crinky thrills all up and down my spine whenever I think about that great chain of warehouses the men of the A. R. A. operate on the other side. I have seen nothing to equal them for plain efficiency. I have been in dozens of these warehouses, from the Baltic down to the Black Sea, and never saw an ounce of spoiled food.

I have gone down to the docks and spent whole days watching ships unload—without discovering so much as a broken can of condensed milk.

HOW TO UNLOAD A SHIP

And here's a queer thing—the charge that food was sent over in a ship drawing 26 feet of water and which was unable to make port in 16 feet. Senator Watson says the food rotted.

Queer. Why, I saw ships like that a couple of times. They were unable to make port because the boats drew too much water.

The inefficient A. R. A. men calmly transhipped the food to other ships—sent forward (also calmly and quite as a matter of course), by the London headquarters of the A. R. A., very efficiently directed by an American engineer by name of Walter Lyman Brown, ably assisted by an extremely well known business man from Chicago, named Edwin Sherman, who, so far as I know was never accused of being careless and inexpert in the conduct of his own affairs. And further assisted by a most competent young technical man from California, named Mowatt M. Mitchell, who had a lot to do personally with the smooth functioning of those warehouses. And scattered all about were keen-witted, self-reliant young men who had helped Uncle Sam finish up a little job over in France, and who had learned thereby a very great deal about transport matters and handling food supplies and other little allied interests of that character.

I am thinking how surprised those relief men would be with Senator Watson's definition of "a good time." Their good time is a lot of the messiest jobs I ever saw. I have seen A. R. A. men work all day and every day in the refugee camps feeding and sorting and clothing the filthiest lot of human beings the imagination ever conceived. I have gone with these American men into hospitals where the sights and sounds—and the filth—turned me deathly sick—and have been twitted by them for being overly sensitive. I have seen them earnestly laboring over the relief of leper colonies. I have seen them personally caring for children so deformed and swollen by hunger as to be unbelievably repulsive. Yet these young American men work with these unfortunates as tenderly as if they were their own little brothers and sisters. I have never seen one show the slightest repulsion over the physical condition of these babies.

A good time! Oh, dear God!

Yes, they have limousines over there, the old military ones left over from the war.

I saw quite a number, I saw one carrying relief one day up into a remote corner of Poland, in the Vilna district, right into the heart of the old German battle line. In fact I went along—to see what I could see. What I did see were hundreds of families actually starving, with little children swollen out of human shape. And I saw that limousine (which Mr. Watson condemns) carry food into that inaccessible corner of the earth, where other means of transportation was absolutely lacking.

I can see the eyes of those mothers yet—like grateful dogs' eyes they were, when they caught sight of that food.

There was a limousine in Budapest, also.

And there was a young man there named Russell Bell. I want to remember that young man and his name, because he represented the finest type of American relief worker abroad. If ever a man took his work seriously Russell Bell was that man.

There was also Mrs. Russell Bell. One day Mrs. Bell remarked that her husband always took the 6 o'clock boat home. (They lived on one of the little islands in the river.)

"Isn't there a bridge across for the motor?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, but no one comes that way."

Now you know what happened, don't you? I did not rest until I found out why.

He did not think the gas should be used for private riding about. He said if he were working in America he would travel to and fro in the street car or other public utility.

And now I learn from Senator Watson that these relief men do nothing but have a good time.

One day I went to that far Northern port, Danzig, to spend a week. I met the wife of the "chief" of the A. R. A. mission there. She was greatly worried. She told me her husband's health was breaking down from overwork. She said he worked every night until midnight and all day Sunday. He had not taken a day off in more than two years.

"A GOOD TIME" IN POLAND

On this man devolved the responsibility of keeping Poland supplied with enough food for a million and a half babies. He fretted himself to death for fear of a breax in that never-ending procession of cars that crossed the border from the boat landing every day. Each day that man had to get off a long train of loaded cars—and when a boat was delayed he sweat blood. I have seen him walking the docks straining his eyes anxiously for sight of an expected boat and anxiously for sight of an expected worrying about the Polish babies.

That was his "good time."

One day up in Revel the young wife of the "chief" stood looking wistfully at the mounta in of sacks filled with white flour. "I wish I could buy just a few pounds of white flour," she said, "but the A. R. A. personnel is not allowed to buy a mite of food. The rules are very strict."

This young "chief's" name was John Thors. He belongs to the staff of the Pontiac (Mich.) College, and was lent to the A. R. A. to help out with the relief work in Esthonia and Finland. He and his charming young wife are other relief workers I like to think about—for they, too, are gloriously of the type this country is proud of.

And then there was a young man named Howard, up in Riga. He used to go to work at 8 o'clock in the morning and never left his job until dinner. (He carried a sandwich in a paper bag for luncheon.) After dinner there was hardly a night when he did not go to some committee of local relief workers. I marveled how anybody could work so long and so hard.

I could go right down the line and give you examples of similar devotion in every single country in Europe.

But will not those cited—picked at random—convince you of the single purpose and devotion of these "baby feeders?"

Oh, yes, about those accounts that are troubling the Senator. Some of the sharpest-eyed public accountants I ever saw were nosing around over the books of the European missions. They were hired from public accounting services here and sent over to audit the books.

And now we are in France. In the devastated area. It is here one gets the full force of Europe's gratitude for American relief—and of Europe's love for Herbert Hoover. If any food sent to France rotted the people knew nothing of it.

It was a member of the French Academy who told me first of what the American food meant to France. "Hoover has presented France with a priceless gift," said this man, "he has given my country the lives of many thousands of citizens."

It was an Englishman at Lille who told me in his unemotional way what American relief had meant in the occupied territory. Detesting scenes and emotion, he spoke in a matter-of-fact way. "When the first Hoover food came," he told me, "we were absolutely without nourishment of any kind. There was not a cat left in the whole area—we ate them last of all." This Englishman was engaged in business in Lille and was caught there when the Germans marched in. He gave a graphic recital of the dependence of the French on American food and said over and over again that without it they must have died.

In recognition of American assistance the French people are planning to make permanent the most remarkable child welfare movement established by the Committee for Relief in Belgium (also attacked by Watson). Recognising that nothing save drastic measures could save the lives of thousands of French babies, Mr. Hoover inaugurated the now celebrated "Consultations de Nourrissons," where the babies born of war-starved mothers were cared for. Countless thousands of child lives have been saved through this work, and the "Consultations" of today what is probably the most constructive child welfare movement in the world. Twice a month 50,000 children are presented at the "Consultations" by their mothers, for examination by physicians and nurses. All babies up to 15 months are examined in order to keep the well ones well, as well as to cure the sick ones. There are nearly 1,000 of these "Consultations," all established by the Committee for Relief in Belgium. So remarkable have been the results that France plans to make the work permanent. Agents of the Ministry of Public Health lately visited the region to make a careful inspection with the purpose of recommending its extension to the entire country.

It will serve as a living memorial to the humanity of the American philanthropist.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in numerous and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. PEBLER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, harmless effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a measure held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a safe and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Cotton Market

Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows in their weekly report on the cotton market:

China Cotton.—During the past week the market has had a slightly better appearance and an upward reaction of about a quarter of a tael has taken place; about the only cause of the advance, however, has been a decrease of pressure of spot cotton, bringing about covering on the part of those who sold too enthusiastically last week. There has been some scattered buying by local Mills but with little enthusiasm. On the whole, while local sentiment is rather more bullish, or rather less bearish, than recently, it is feared that any decline of consequence would meet with renewed buying by the Bull clique.

Crop news has been generally rather favorable, but there are some complaints of lack of rain in some sections, while it would seem that other territories have had too much rain. These may be only the usual vicissitudes of every summer.

As to the future trend of the market, we see no reason for the present to change our view that higher prices are likely to be seen.

Extracts of Correspondence

Kiangsu Province, July 9:—We are having more favorable weather for cotton, but our crop is 14 days late. Cotton is still grassy in fields where ground is too wet to work, especially the low-lands.

Chekiang Province, July 8:—Cotton is small but growing nicely and the outlook so far very good.

Yangtsze Valley, July 7:—The farmers have had couple of days in which to work, but the land has been so wet that little progress has been made. With another week of clear weather rapid improvement should take place.

Shantung and Chili Provinces, July 10:—Weather hot. Crop reports, however, are very favorable. We need few showers within the next three or four days in order to improve general conditions.

Shansi and Shensi Provinces, July 8:—The weather has been too cold and wet. What is required is clear warm weather to finish chopping out and to free the crop from grass.

Yarn:—During the past week, the market has been keeping steady, prices have shown little change and trading continued at a standstill. As to the future trend of the market, there is nothing to change our views as outlined in our report of June 30.

SPUNT REPORTS

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their report on the cotton market:

China Cotton:—Since the issue of our last circular, our market manifested a steady firmness which was maintained throughout the week under review with a slight appreciation in prices at the close engendered by a fair amount of inquiries for the Indian staple on the part of Chinese spinners, although actual business done in this direction may be said to have covered very small quantities for prompt deliveries to meet current requirements. Our yarn market still continuing in a stagnant state appears to have deadened, for the time being, any incentive toward contracting, at this time, for future deliveries and unless the output of the Mills show more active clearances very small markets on the local staple may be looked forward to in the immediate future. However, with regard to price on the raw material, though the weather recently has been favorable to the growing crop, there is nothing discernible as yet which would reasonably point out to any retrogressiveness in the current rates being experienced in the near future. Tone of the market, Firm.

180 Coppers To One Dollar In Peking

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 10.—The exchange between coppers and silver dollars has soared so high lately that the post office has taken action. A notice has been issued in Peking that hereafter the official rate of exchange shall be 180 coppers to a silver dollar.

For the edification of the ignorant, the notice also adds that a silver dollar will still purchase 100 cents worth of stamps.

Wounded Soldiers Show Gratitude To Woman Physician

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, July 9.—Following their forty piece band the remnants of the Twelfth Division paraded the streets of Nanchang yesterday with a "great merit" board which at one o'clock they presented with due ceremony to Dr. Ida Kahn at her hospital back of the old Imperial Temple. The board, twelve feet long and five feet high, bearing in great gold ideograms the inscription "For kindness to our wounded soldiers," was the gift of the wounded that Dr. Kahn had taken into her hospital.

Each of them contributed almost a third of the only money received for three months and their gratitude was as wholesome as it was pathetic.

In spite of Chinese traditions Dr. Kahn placed all her women patients on the upper floor, and gave over the lower floor to the wounded. Her girl nurses have cared for them well and soldiers in turn have shown every consideration for the young women. No complaint of any kind has been heard from them.

There is now no foreign doctor in the city, Dr. Blydenburgh having left the M. E. Hospital, for a week or two, in care of his most efficient Chinese staff. No more wounded have been received and the wards are gradually being cleared as convalescents are being discharged and sent back to the front. Constant rumors of fighting about Kian and Foochow, though persistent, have not been verified by the receipt of more wounded at Nanchang.

Civil Governor Of Kiangsi Progressive

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, July 9.—Ring out the new, ring in the old. For into the shoes of the progressive, forward looking, almost Christian, Civil Governer Yang of Kiangsi has stepped the old Taoyen, Hoh Kan-teh, to the tips of his nails the perfect Chinese gentleman.

Acting Governor Hoh is a Fukien man, and there is a marked transition of magistrates toward Fukienese. But Governor Hoh is well liked, as well or better liked than any non-Kiangsi man can hope to be. He has already rendered the province a great service.

The rains have been heavier than for years and as he stepped into office the waters of the Poo were washing the pavements of Ho-kai or River Street, crops were suffering and famine conditions more real than any known in recent years in Prosperous Province threatened.

Something had to be done and Governor Ho did it, and did it successfully, for there has been no rain for a week, the rivers have fallen ten feet at the Nanchang water front and the days are getting warm.

All of this was the result of the mandate issued by Governor Hoh that every magistrate go once every day to the Cheng-huang-miao or hsien temple in his city and pray for the cessation of the deluge. Had it not been for this prompt action on the part of Governor Hoh how high might the waters not have come?

Anhui People Are Tired Of Soldiers

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 10.—The Chairman of the Tuchun Abolition Society of Anhui has sent a wire to the Central Government declaring that the people of his province are sick and tired of the military burden. Money has been getting scarcer and looting his reduced the people to poverty. The only solution will be the complete abolition of the tuchunate and disbandment of troops.

The telegram calls for common action on the part of the country to get rid of the military pests.
